

References

1. "Violence in Therapy" by David Boadella, Energy & Character, Vol 11 No. 1, Jan 1980.
  2. "Death of the Ego", by David Boadella, Energy & Character, Vol 11, No. 2 & 3, May & Sept, 1980.
  3. "Gurus in America", Edward Mann, Energy & Character, Vol 18, No. 1, April 1987.
  4. "Rajneeshism", Edward Mann, Energy & Character, Vol 18, No. 2, October 1987.
  5. Bhagwan: The God that Failed, by Hugh Milne, Caliban Books, 1986.
-

BROTHER

I could still play with you and be your friend, little men amongst the cushions, hunting Pinky the mouse (which I trod on and you never forgave me) making mud pies or playing grown-ups except:
we grew up and grew away, hated, fought for mother's love and learned different tactics and just don't see each other anymore.

They reflect in our relationships the messes I've made, the security you hang onto but you know it's washed up now, no longer working and the children are causing quite a problem.
I can't speak
my life is a shell and a core.

Three years since Dad died we haven't seen each other, three different relationships for me yours in a turmoil, what have we taken from those two who've died and left us both to it, our responsibilities our joy - or just our long separation?

Barry Wynn

---