

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Self and Society,

The article about God consciousness by John Wren-Lewis (March/April'91) is the best and least pretentious piece I have read about mysticism and the Near Death Experience. Our newly- formed Centre is beginning to compile a 'Natural Death Compendium' and would welcome accounts from Self and Society readers concerning and relevant topics: Near-Death Experiences, caring for dying friend or relatives at home, dignified natural deaths, own designs for prayers and rituals for both before death and at funerals, deaths in other cultures, ideas as to how present-day terminal 'caring services' could be improved, favourite books or articles, experiences of 'DIY' funerals, recommendations or warnings about particular undertakers, counsellors, spiritual healers etc.

The Natural Death Centre seeks to become like a Which? magazine available by letter giving free and unbiased advice, but for that it needs a great deal of information from the general public about their experiences.

With best wishes,
Nicholas Albery
