Surbala Morgan

I am alive,
Ignited
With the flickering penumbra
Of a light and shadow side,
Both equally exist,
Now flame, now shade,
The whole of me
Reflected in your eyes
As one.

I disinter
My shame
Of being human,
Take off the mask,
Reveal my pain,
Undress the darkness
That eclipsed my soul.

Because you do not
Claim allegiance to the light
Alone,
I am complete within this space,
The untouched part of me
Accepted,
All-encompassed
As the whole.

I am alive,
Excited into life,
I spark, I glow,
The spiral dark and light
Released,
Unite as one,
Rise up like flame,
Reach out to you
And grow.
