

Tony Morris

Famous Facilitators, and Dancing, and Singing, and Moving, and Stillness Engaging with Earth, Air, Fire, Water & Spirit

What's your image of camping?

Never done it, so don't like it? / Tried it once, never again! / Scouts or Guides Camp was awful! / Rain in the coffee, flies in the soup, nettles in my bum and mud everywhere!

OR Waking to a depth of silence, filled with birdsong. / An infinity of stars in velvet dark, and a full moon of brightest silver. / Wonderful fresh organic food in the clear air. / Such sense of community, dancing, singing and talking around the fire.

People are picking up our Summer Festival Flyer and saying 'We loved to camp with Mum and Dad.' 'We camped when we were dating. Great to do it again.' If you're one of them, fill in the flyer asap, the early-bird discount is about to end. Or are you saying: 'It looks fabulous! But it's under canvas! Couldn't do that!' So when you saw our flyer in January's S&S you got cold feet? Feared cold feet, or a sleepless night? Maybe you'll be so healthily tired with the dancing and singing and talking under the full moon that you'll sleep like a log? And, you're only in your tent for a few of the 48 hours, and sleeping! My cold feet experience was of compulsory cadet camp - horrible! Yet when I visited Green & Away I had a corrective emotional experience. The workshops are in large marquees, or under the warm sun. It's ecologically sound, has a small carbon footprint, great staff, fab meals cooked and served for you, hot showers, and sit-down loos. There's even some beds and bedding for hire, if you can't bring a sleeping bag. And if you really must, there's local B&B's.

Yes, I'm speaking to the unconverted here, those who have put aside, or lost, January's flyer. So see the notice below and help us, and yourself, to enjoy a unique event. And ask for more flyers if you can distribute them. And I haven't got room to remind you that to have Brian Thorne, John Rowan, Nick Totton, together with other practitioners, and drums, dance, awareness, mindfulness and much more all on the same weekend is a fantastic package.

Don't miss it, or the early-bird discount. Book Now
A Weekend with Humanistic Psychology 27-29 July 2007
 At Green & Away, near Gloucester

Contemporary perspectives in psychology, with the freedom, contact, exploration and excitement of the early humanistic movement.

Key speakers: Brian Thorne, Nick Totton and John Rowan
 Creative workshops include bioenergetics, mindfulness, pulsing, drumming, dancing, singing, visualisation, Chi Kung & movement.
 £120 for current & new AHP members. £140 after mid-March

Download the flyer from the website www.ahpb.org.uk
 Or contact AHP(B) BM Box 3582 London WC1 3XX admin@ahpb.org.uk
 Enquiries: festival@ahpb.org.uk T: 01953 852 961